Whistle Stop Tours signal upcoming timetable improvements

Rail passengers at stations along the West Coast Mainline will be able to find out more about upcoming timetable improvements over the next two weeks.

London Northwestern Railway will be hosting a number of 'Whistle Stop Tour' events at stations, as well as providing senior management on trains across the network to remind passengers of changes to services coming this Spring.

The events will be an opportunity for passengers to meet with railway managers, ask any questions they might have and to find out more about how their journey may be affected.

From 19 May, there will be a range of major changes to train services across the London Northwestern Railway network. The train operator is introducing new direct services to more destinations, additional services throughout the week (including peak time services between Watford and London Euston) and earlier morning and later evening services to and from many stations.

The changes will bring a range of benefits to passengers, but will mean changes to train times and the platforms that some services depart from at busier stations. Over the next few weeks, passengers are being reminded to check if their usual journey is likely to change and to make sure they are aware of any alterations before heading out after 19 May.

Jonny Wiseman, customer experience director for London Northwestern Railway, said: “While the timetable improvements being introduced in May will be great news for many passengers, there will be changes to many train times, the platforms being used at some stations and carriage formations to accommodate the changes. This will be the biggest timetable change for over 10 years, so we expect people to have some questions. Our ‘Whistle Stop Tour’ events will give our passengers a chance to find out more about what is coming with the new timetable and to feed back any concerns.”

‘Whistle Stop Tour’ events will be calling at:

- Wednesday 8 May – Milton Keynes – 1630 - 1830
- Thursday 9 May - Northampton – 1630 – 1830
- Monday 13 May - Birmingham New Street - 0800 – 1815
- Tuesday 14 May – London Euston – 0800 - 1815
- Thursday 16 May – Watford Junction – 1630 - 1830

The new timetable will operate from Sunday 19 May. As there will be changes to the time and formation of some services, passengers are advised to check their train times and to plan ahead for the changes. The new timetable is now live on journey planning systems and more information can be found at londonnorthwesternrailway.co.uk/travel-information/may-timetable-changes
